Claude gold — 8/10

Harmony 9 · Occasion 8 · Silhouette 8 · Cohesion 9

The beige ribbed button-front knit dress is neat and composed for formal errands — one clean line, one calm color, nothing that argues with paperwork or officialdom. It's polished without pretending to be corporate.

Fix: Add a structured dark bag — a touch of formality that matches the setting.

Belanja ke pasar · b2_r5c1.jpg

Claude gold — 4/10

Harmony 4 · Occasion 3 · Silhouette 7 · Cohesion 4

This colorblock top and leopard-print pants combination is a party outfit that wandered into a market run — the neon blocks and busy print fight each other, and for belanja ke pasar it's a lot of look for the produce aisle. The confidence is real; the occasion just isn't this one.

Fix: Save this for a festival day — for the pasar, change into a plain tee with these same pants so one loud piece leads.

Antar anak sekolah · b2_r5c2.jpg

Claude gold — 4/10

Harmony 5 · Occasion 3 · Silhouette 7 · Cohesion 4

The band tee with multicolor patchwork pants is weekend-market cool, but for the school drop-off it reads louder than the moment needs — the patchwork alone is a statement piece competing with a graphic tee. Great pieces, wrong pairing for the school gate.

Fix: Keep the patchwork pants and change into a plain white or black tee — one statement at a time.

Ke warung · b2_r5c3.jpg

Claude gold — 4/10

Harmony 4 · Occasion 3 · Silhouette 7 · Cohesion 4

The bright orange jacket over heavily printed pants with a printed hijab is three statements stacked for a trip to the warung — each piece is interesting, but together they compete, and the corner shop didn't ask for this much. Modesty is beautifully kept; the volume knob is the issue.

Fix: For a warung run, keep the hijab and swap into a plain neutral top — the printed pants can then carry the look alone.

Claude gold — 4/10

Harmony 4 · Occasion 3 · Silhouette 7 · Cohesion 4

The tie-dye shirt, printed pants, and pink bucket hat make a festival look, and visiting a neighbor calls for something quieter — this much color at their door shifts the visit's tone before a word is said. Fun outfit, mismatched moment.

Fix: Change into a plain blouse with soft trousers — keep the bucket hat if you want one playful note.
